

Food Safety Policy

Ampacet Latin America is committed to food safety criteria and good practices in the manufacture of masterbatch, ensuring that processes and products are monitored, controlled and in accordance with applicable legal and regulatory requirements and those of our customers.

Our food safety management system aims to generate confidence in our customers, through our commitment and responsibility to manufacture safe and high quality products, by controlling the applicable hazards and control measures based on a prerequisites program.

Through constant evaluation, monitoring and analysis of our processes, we use as a management tool continuous improvement, development of people's competencies in food safety and internal and external communication.
